

GE Vernova and the Boston Celtics Announce Three-Year Partnership to Recognize Members of the United States Armed Forces

- The global energy leader will acknowledge and connect the nation's best military talent with the future of electricity

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (October 27, 2026) - GE Vernova Inc. (NYSE: GEV) and the Boston Celtics ignited a three-year partnership designed to recognize members of the United States Armed Forces at TD Garden during the team's 20th Annual Seats for Soldiers Night. In addition to the partnership, GE Vernova marked the occasion by hosting a series of events at the Celtics 100 Causeway Street Headquarters.

A full day of career events held Monday brought together more than 165 veterans and student veterans with GE Vernova's hiring teams, senior leaders, and veteran employees. This event represented the largest veteran recruiting activation in the energy company's history and focused on pairing the tenacity of service members with the world's most consequential energy infrastructure projects, strengthening veteran integration in the private sector.

GE Vernova's Military Career Summit opened with a keynote from Chief People Officer Steven Baert on why veterans are essential to GE Vernova's mission, followed by a "Mission Continuity" panel — a conversation with GE Vernova veteran leaders on how the discipline, adaptability, and leadership forged in military service translates directly into some of the most consequential careers in the global energy transition. The afternoon career fair connected candidates with hiring teams across GE Vernova's Nuclear, Supply Chain, Cyber, Operations, Project Management, and Field Services teams.

Adding to the day's events, GE Vernova welcomed approximately 65 student veterans from MIT and Northeastern University to the Sky Lobby at Celtics

Headquarters for an exclusive Student Veteran Networking Social, featuring remarks from GE Vernova CEO Scott Strazik. The evening concluded with the entire group heading to TD Garden together for tip off.

"The Boston Celtics have spent twenty years honoring those who serve through their Annual Seats for Soldiers Night, and our company has spent decades building a career trajectory for those same individuals," said Scott Strazik, CEO of GE Vernova. "This three-year partnership with the Celtics will help GE Vernova create awareness for meaningful career opportunities that exist. We are not just hiring veterans, we are investing in the leadership required to power the world," said Scott Strazik, President and CEO of GE Vernova.

Building the Future, Powered by Veterans

With veterans already accounting for 10 percent of GE Vernova's U.S. workforce and a 96 percent first-year retention rate, we have proven that military talent is a critical engine of our growth. This three-year partnership is a commitment to scale that success, turning our mission into a magnet for the next generation of veteran leaders. We are actively expanding our teams across Nuclear, Supply Chain, Cyber, Operations, Project Management, and Field Services. "For 20 years, Seats for Soldiers has given us the opportunity to recognize the men and women who serve our country and bring them together for a special night at TD Garden," said Rich Gotham, Boston Celtics Team President. "Our season ticket members have played an important role in making this tradition possible, and with the support of GE Vernova, we're continuing to find meaningful ways to connect with and recognize our military community."

Seats for Soldiers Night is now in its 20th year at TD Garden. Since its inception, Celtics season ticket members and the organization have donated more than 23,000 tickets to active-duty service members and veterans and last night alone, over 1,200 tickets were given to service members.
