To Board of Directors of GE Power India Limited

We have reviewed the accompanying statement of standalone unaudited financial results of GE Power India Limited ("the Company") for the quarter and six months ended 30 September 2017 ("the Statement") attached herewith, being submitted by the Company pursuant to the requirement of Regulation 33 of the SEBI (Listing Obligations and Disclosure Requirements) Regulations, 2015.

This Statement is the responsibility of the Company's management and has been approved by the Board of Directors on 1 November 2017. Our responsibility is to issue a report on this Statement based on our review.

We conducted our review in accordance with the Standard on Review Engagement (SRE) 2410 'Review of Interim Financial Information Performed by the Independent Auditor of the Entity', issued by the Institute of Chartered Accountants of India. This standard requires that we plan and perform the review to obtain moderate assurance as to whether the Statement is free of material misstatement. A review is limited primarily to inquiries of Company personnel and analytical procedures applied to financial data and thus provides less assurance than an audit. We have not performed an audit and accordingly, we do not express an audit opinion.

Based on our review conducted as above, nothing has come to our attention that causes us to believe that the accompanying statement of standalone unaudited financial results prepared in accordance with applicable accounting standards i.e. Indian Accounting Standards ('Ind AS') prescribed under Section 133 of the Companies Act, 2013, read with relevant rules issued thereunder and other recognized accounting practices and policies, has not disclosed the information required to be disclosed in terms of Regulation 33 of the SEBI (Listing Obligations and Disclosure Requirements) Regulations, 2015 including the manner in which it is to be disclosed, or that it contains any material misstatement.

One butterfly at a time

The book Butterfly in the Quantum World speaks loudest to a reader in its spirit, its scientific and mathematical curiosity, its willingness to be surprised at every turn. It's the reason mathematics is such an elegant, rewarding pursuit.

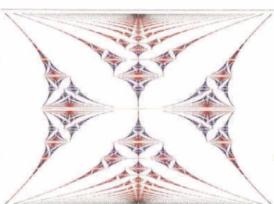

t's not often that I will finish a book, that it keaves me mazed out the richness and expanse of its ideas... and that I have to confess! did not understand fair chunks of it. Butteefly in thave to ordense! did not understand fair chunks of which world is such a book. Please understand: I have no problem making that confession. Because even if there were mathematical dabbler that I ammunitation of the such a solicity of the such as a finish with a microsaing wonder at the niches esplored, the connections made. In that series, Indubala Stija, its author, made me feel that in mathematical construct, if you will—though that word implies a nundanity that really does not apply. In playing with number sequences as a mathematically inclined teenager, the cognitive serients Doue Hofstarder a fund for the supposed to the suppos s not often that I will fin connection to his teenaged discovery with numbers, you can imagine how astonished and delighted he was. Who would have thought it? He captured the relationship between the energy levels of these electrons and the magnetic field in agraph he called "Gplot". Thing is, as far as I can tell, only Hofstadter has ever used that name. Prety much every other scientist who has every such, both charms and scientists—knows it as the "Hofstadter Butterfly." If you take a look at it, you'll know why. Especially word when coloured as in Indu Satija's book it looks a whole to like one of the observation in the state of the coloured as in Indu Satija's book itsee beautiful insects that flutter by, catching the sum and filling us with, yes, wonder.

She ran into HoStatder's Butterfly early in her career, and found that it flut-tered by over and over through the years. The connections thrilled her, to the extent that she began compil-ing them into a book. In 2014, she sent HoStadter a draft. It thrilled him too, to the extent that he wrote sent Hofstadter a draft. It thrilled him too, to the extent that the wrote a prologue, a "guest chapter" and worked closely with Satija tochisel the draft into the finished product. At one point, he writes of has butter-fly and of all that 'sin this book: "Little did I suspect that from these humble beginnings would flow so many other results in the coming decades. Although I didn't participate in those discoveries, I have watched them from the side-lines with great interest, and fighes

I thought of that seemingly effortless thought of that seemingly effortiess wringing all through this book. Because there's endless meaning and analogy to be drawn from Hof-stadter's Butterfly, and actually you don't even have to wring it out. But yes, it's true: Ilmow too little physics and mathematics to under-physis and mathematics to inder-stand various parts of this book. Even so, I enjoyed it a great deal, and I realize that probably sounds like a contradiction. So I'm going to try to explain why, and why I think you will similarly enjoy the book. Early in the book, Satija offersus this quote: "A mathematician ... who is not at the same time a bit of a poet will never be afull mathemati-cian." That spirit runs through the book like a sparkling chain of jew-els. I always think that if more of us

As Sotija explains, "Alliof asudden, the world under-stood exly the Balmer formula was the way it was, and with that, the profound mysteries of the atom were starting to be unlocked." Look around you for patterns and who knows—one day some-body may connect them to the "profound mysteries of the atom" and win a Nobel Prize. Wow. Satija devotes several chapters to Satija devotes several chapters to exploring the butterfly's connecexploring the butterfly's connec-tion to the "quantum Hall effect", a remarkable property, discovered in 1880, of how certain materials con-duct electricity while subjected to magnetic field.

The effect, thus, turns out to be related to the Apollonian gasket I mentioned above. "How unex-pected", she writes, "that abeaufful and abstract pice of mathematics and abstract piece of mathematics from well over 2000 years ago" is connected so intimately to a 1980 discovery. In fact, when we observe the quantum Hall effect, "we are

A few lines later, he says the equation would likely leave most cosine-savvy high-school students choking in the dust. ... But I think that it's important to point out and to savour such magically fluid thinking."

My eyes glazed over, certainly, to savour such magically fluid thinking."

My eyes glazed over, certainly, but I also assured the thinking. For the number of times "magic", "poetry" and their variants appear in this book tells a story by itself.

So it's only appropriate that the last chapter has several poems; four winners in a Butterfly contest Sutja organized, and one by Satjia and Hofstadter "[It's one, yet it's infringivg/Bernity, sublimity/Divinigham and mystery/It's raga, yet it's poetry." And in a Coda, Sutja finds a connection to her Indian roots as well: inlines from Baskara's Lifaunit, "a little gern of poetic verse where below, beauty and mathematics are braided together." It's a puzzle love, beauty and mathematics are braided together." It's a puzzle about a swarm of bees that Baskara poses in those lines, and he ends it thus: "Say, lovely woman, the number of bees."

Honselly, I divin't need to understand everything in this book It wish is arbit in exercited and a securitif and
