NOTE 1. ORGANIZATION AND BASIS OF PRESENTATION

Organization. GE Vernova Inc. (the Company, GE Vernova, our, we, or us) is a global leader in the electric power industry, with products and services that generate, transfer, orchestrate, convert, and store electricity. We design, manufacture, deliver, and service technologies to create a more reliable, secure, and sustainable electric power system, enabling electrification and decarbonization, underpinning the progress and prosperity of the communities we serve. We report our financial results across three business segments:

- Our Power segment includes the design, manufacture, and servicing of gas, nuclear, and hydro technologies, providing a critical foundation of dispatchable, flexible, stable, and reliable power.
- Our Electrification segment includes power transmission, grid systems integration, power conversion and storage, and grid automation and software technologies required for the transmission, distribution, conversion, storage, and orchestration of electricity from point of generation to point of consumption.
- Our Wind segment includes our wind generation technologies, inclusive of onshore and offshore wind turbines and blades.
- Effective January 1, 2026, the Company realigned the reporting of certain of its business units. Historical financial information presented within this report conforms to the new business unit structure within the Power, Electrification, and Wind segments.
 - Within our Power segment, our Steam Power business unit was realigned into Nuclear Power, Hydro Power, and Gas Power. In addition, a component of our former Electrification Software business unit was realigned into Gas Power.
 - Within our Electrification segment, we revised our Grid Solutions business unit into three new business units, Power Transmission, Grid Systems Integration, and Grid Automation & Software. In addition, a component of our former Electrification Software business unit was realigned into Grid Automation & Software and another component was realigned into Gas Power within our Power segment.
 - Within our Wind segment, we combined our Onshore Wind and LM Wind Power business units into Onshore Wind.

Basis of Presentation. We have prepared the accompanying unaudited consolidated financial statements pursuant to the rules and regulations of the Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC) applicable to interim financial statements. Accordingly, certain information related to our significant accounting policies and note disclosures normally included in financial statements prepared in accordance with U.S. generally accepted accounting principles (U.S. GAAP) have been condensed or omitted. These unaudited consolidated financial statements should be read in conjunction with our audited consolidated and combined financial statements, corresponding notes, and significant accounting policies in our Annual Report on Form 10-K for the fiscal year ended December 31, 2025. We have reclassified certain prior year amounts to conform to the current year's presentation. The information presented in tables throughout the notes is presented in millions of U.S. dollars unless otherwise stated. Certain columns and rows may not add due to the use of rounded numbers. Percentages presented are calculated from the underlying numbers in millions. All intercompany balances and transactions within the Company have been eliminated in the consolidated financial statements.

NOTE 2. SUMMARY OF SIGNIFICANT ACCOUNTING POLICIES

Estimates and Assumptions. The preparation of the consolidated financial statements in conformity with U.S. GAAP requires management to make estimates based on assumptions about current, and for some estimates, future, economic and market conditions which affect reported amounts and related disclosures in the consolidated financial statements. We believe these assumptions to be reasonable under the circumstances, and although our current estimates contemplate current and expected future conditions, as applicable, it is reasonably possible that actual conditions could differ from our expectations, which could materially affect our results of operations, financial position, and cash flows.

Estimates are used for, but are not limited to, determining revenues from contracts with customers, recoverability of inventory, long-lived assets and investments, valuation of goodwill and intangible assets, useful lives used in depreciation and amortization, income taxes and related valuation allowances, accruals for contingencies including legal, indemnifications, product warranties, and environmental, actuarial assumptions used to determine costs of pension and postretirement benefits, valuation and recoverability of receivables, valuation of derivatives, and valuation of assets acquired and liabilities assumed as a result of acquisitions.

See Note 2 in the Notes to our audited consolidated and combined financial statements in our Annual Report on Form 10-K for the fiscal year ended December 31, 2025, for further information on our significant accounting policies.

Sales of customer receivables. From time to time, the Company sells current or long-term receivables to third parties in response to customer-sponsored requests or programs, to facilitate sales, or for risk mitigation purposes. The Company sold current customer receivables to third parties and subsequently collected $298 million and $373 million in the three months ended March 31, 2026 and 2025, respectively. Transactions under these arrangements are accounted for as sales, and the sold receivables are removed from the Company's balance sheet. The Company maintains no continuing involvement with respect to the receivables being transferred.

Depreciation and amortization related to property, plant, and equipment was $166 million and $149 million in the three months ended March 31, 2026 and 2025, respectively.

NOTE 7. LEASES. Our operating lease liabilities, included in All other current liabilities and All other liabilities in our Consolidated Statement of Financial Position, were $898 million and $843 million as of March 31, 2026 and December 31, 2025, respectively. Expense related to our operating lease portfolio, primarily from our long-term fixed leases, was $68 million and $45 million for the three months ended March 31, 2026 and 2025, respectively. Our finance lease liabilities, included in All other current liabilities and Long-term borrowings in our Consolidated Statement of Financial Position, were $303 million and $278 million as of March 31, 2026 and December 31, 2025, respectively.

NOTE 8. ACQUISITIONS, GOODWILL, AND OTHER INTANGIBLE ASSETS

Acquisitions. On February 2, 2026, GE Vernova completed the acquisition of the remaining 50% stake of Prolec GE, our former unconsolidated joint venture with Xignux, in exchange for cash consideration of $5,254 million. Prolec GE is an electric industry leader in North America, with approximately 10,000 employees across seven manufacturing sites in the Americas, including five in the U.S. It produces a wide variety of transformers and transformer components for the generation, transmission, and distribution of electricity, complemented by its broad transformer services offering. The acquisition increases our ability to serve the North American transformer market. Net assets and results of operations of Prolec GE are included in our results commencing on February 2, 2026 and are reported within the Electrification segment. As a result of this acquisition, we remeasured our previously held equity interest to fair value, with the resulting pre-tax gain of $3,992 million recognized within Other income (expense) – net in our Consolidated Statement of Income during the first quarter of 2026 and was determined by using the implied total equity value from the transaction price, adjusted for an assumed control premium. Pro forma results of operations are not presented because the acquisition is not material to the Company's consolidated results of operations for the periods ended March 31, 2026 and 2025, respectively.

The following table summarizes the preliminary purchase consideration as well as the preliminary allocation to the assets acquired and liabilities assumed based upon their estimated fair values at the date of acquisition:

Cash consideration transferred	$	5,254
Fair value of previously held 50% equity interest		4,402
Total preliminary purchase consideration	$	9,656
Current assets	$	1,597
Intangible assets		3,980
Other non-current assets		1,126
Current liabilities		(1,045)
Non-current liabilities		(1,476)
Total identifiable net assets acquired	$	4,183
Goodwill		5,473
Total preliminary purchase consideration	$	9,656

Goodwill is calculated as the excess of the purchase consideration over the estimated fair value of net assets acquired and primarily represents the value of the assembled workforce along with expected synergies from integrating Prolec GE's operations with the Company's operations. The goodwill is recorded in our Electrification segment and approximately $400 million of the goodwill is expected to be deductible for tax purposes.

We determined the fair value of assets acquired and liabilities assumed using available market information and various valuation methods that require judgment related to estimates. The purchase accounting related to the acquisition, including the valuation of tangible and intangible assets, is preliminary and likely to change in future reporting periods. We will complete our post-closing procedures and purchase price allocation as soon as practicable but no later than the first quarter of 2027. See Notes 9, 11, and 19 for further information.

The preliminary fair value and weighted-average amortization period of identifiable intangible assets acquired as of the acquisition date is as follows:

	Weighted-average useful lives (in years)	Total
Customer related	12 $	2,720
Patents and technology	6	507
Capitalized software	3	8
Trademarks and other	3	745
Total identifiable intangible assets acquired	$	3,980

The fair values of the customer related and trademarks and other intangible assets were primarily determined using the multi-period excess earnings method, and the fair values of the patents and technology intangible assets were valued using the relief-from-royalty method.

Revenue and income (loss) before income taxes of Prolec GE from the acquisition date through March 31, 2026 were $485 million and $(105) million, respectively. The income (loss) before income taxes includes the impact of inventory step-up amortization, intangible asset amortization, and integration costs. Acquisition-related costs totaled $35 million during the three months ended March 31, 2026 and are included in Selling, general, and administrative expenses in our Consolidated Statement of Income.

We assess the possibility that a reporting unit's fair value has been reduced below its carrying amount due to the occurrence of events or circumstances between annual impairment testing dates. In the first quarter of 2026, we did not identify any reporting units that were impaired.

Intangible assets. All intangible assets are subject to amortization. Intangible assets increased $3,816 million during the three months ended March 31, 2026, primarily as a result of the acquisition of Prolec GE, partially offset by amortization. Amortization expense was $176 million and $56 million for the three months ended March 31, 2026 and 2025, respectively.

NOTE 9. CONTRACT AND OTHER DEFERRED ASSETS & CONTRACT LIABILITIES AND DEFERRED INCOME

Contract assets reflect revenue recognized on contracts in excess of billings based on contractual terms. Contract liabilities primarily represent cash received from customers under ordinary commercial payment terms in advance of delivery of equipment orders or servicing of customers' installed base.

Contract and other deferred assets increased $399 million in the three months ended March 31, 2026 primarily due to the timing of revenue recognition ahead of billing milestones on equipment and other service agreements. Contract liabilities and deferred income increased $6,000 million in the three months ended March 31, 2026 primarily due to new collections received in excess of revenue recognition and as a result of the acquisition of Prolec GE. Net contractual service agreements increased primarily due to revenues recognized of $1,280 million, partially offset by billings of $1,163 million and net unfavorable changes in estimated profitability of $89 million.

Revenue recognized related to the contract liabilities balance at the beginning of the year was approximately $4,001 million and $3,601 million for the three months ended March 31, 2026 and 2025, respectively.

Remaining Performance Obligation (RPO). As of March 31, 2026, the aggregate amount of the contracted revenues allocated to our unsatisfied (or partially unsatisfied) performance obligations were $163,276 million. We expect to recognize revenue as we satisfy our remaining performance obligations as follows:

- (1) Equipment-related RPO of $75,924 million of which 38%, 69%, and 98% is expected to be recognized within 1, 2, and 5 years, respectively, and the remaining thereafter.
- (2) Services-related RPO of $87,352 million of which 16%, 53%, 78%, and 91% is expected to be recognized within 1, 5, 10, and 15 years, respectively, and the remaining thereafter.

Contract modifications could affect both the timing to complete as well as the amount to be received as we fulfill the related RPO.

NOTE 10. CURRENT AND ALL OTHER ASSETS. All other current assets primarily include investment securities, prepaid taxes and deferred charges, and derivative instruments (see Note 20). All other current assets increased $256 million for the three months ended March 31, 2026 primarily due to an increase in our investment in China XD Electric Co., Ltd due to unrealized gains, partially offset by a sale of a portion of our shares, and an increase in financing receivables. The fair value of our investment in China XD Electric Co., Ltd was $564 million as of March 31, 2026, which is considered to be Level 1. See Note 19 for further information. All other assets primarily include pension surplus, long-term receivables (see Note 4), taxes receivable, and prepaid taxes and deferred charges. All other assets decreased $29 million in the three months ended March 31, 2026.

These amounts have been recorded in Accounts payable and equipment project payables on the Consolidated Statement of Financial Position.

(b) In the first quarter of 2026, we acquired the remaining 50% stake of our former equity method investment in Prolec GE from Xignux. As a result, Prolec GE is now consolidated within our financial statements. See Note 8 for further information.

On February 4, 2026, GE Vernova issued $2,600 million aggregate principal amount of senior notes, consisting of $600 million of 4.250% senior notes due February 2031, $1,000 million of 4.875% senior notes due February 2036, and $1,000 million of 5.500% senior notes due February 2056. The senior notes contain customary optional redemption provisions. Net proceeds from the offering were approximately $2,543 million, net of the original issue discount, underwriting fees, and deferred issuance costs. The net proceeds from the debt issuance were used for general corporate purposes, including financing a portion of the acquisition of the remaining 50% interest in Prolec GE, which closed on February 2, 2026.

The estimated fair value of our long-term borrowings, excluding finance leases, was $2,557 million and $11 million as of March 31, 2026 and December 31, 2025, respectively, compared to carrying values of $2,554 million and $11 million as of March 31, 2026 and December 31, 2025, respectively. The fair value of the senior notes is classified as Level 2 within the fair value hierarchy.

Credit Facilities. As of March 31, 2026, we have $6,000 million of credit facilities consisting of (i) an unsecured revolving credit facility in an aggregate committed amount of $3,000 million and (ii) a standby letter of credit and bank guarantee facility in an aggregate committed amount of $3,000 million. Each of the credit facilities will mature on April 2, 2029. There were no borrowings outstanding on these facilities as of March 31, 2026. Fees related to the unused portion of the facilities were insignificant in the three months ended March 31, 2026. See Note 22 in the Notes to our audited consolidated and combined financial statements in our Annual Report on Form 10-K for the fiscal year ended December 31, 2025 for further information.

NOTE 15. CURRENT AND ALL OTHER LIABILITIES. All other current liabilities primarily include liabilities related to employee compensation and benefits, equipment projects and other commercial liabilities, product warranties (see Note 22), taxes payable, liabilities related to business disposition activities, operating lease liabilities (see Note 7), and restructuring liabilities (see Note 23). All other current liabilities increased $381 million in the three months ended March 31, 2026 primarily due to an increase in employee compensation and benefit liabilities. All other liabilities primarily include liabilities related to uncertain and other income taxes, product warranties (see Note 22), legal liabilities (see Note 22), asset retirement obligations (see Note 22), operating lease liabilities (see Note 7), deferred income (see Note 9), equipment projects and other commercial liabilities, and indemnifications (see Note 22). All other liabilities increased $3 million in the three months ended March 31, 2026.

NOTE 16. INCOME TAXES. Our effective tax rate was 6.9% for the three months ended March 31, 2026. The effective tax rate was lower than the U.S. statutory rate of 21% primarily due to a nontaxable gain on the acquisition of Prolec GE and an income tax benefit from stock-based compensation partially offset by losses providing no tax benefit in certain jurisdictions.

Our effective tax rate was 20.5% for the three months ended March 31, 2025. The effective tax rate was lower than the U.S. statutory rate of 21% primarily due to an income tax benefit from stock-based compensation, mostly offset by losses providing no tax benefit in certain jurisdictions.

NOTE 20. FINANCIAL INSTRUMENTS

Loans and Other Receivables. The Company's financial assets not carried at fair value primarily consist of loan receivables and noncurrent customer and other receivables. The net carrying amount was $196 million and $229 million as of March 31, 2026 and December 31, 2025, respectively. The estimated fair value was $196 million and $225 million as of March 31, 2026 and December 31, 2025, respectively. All of these assets are considered to be Level 3.

Derivatives and Hedging. Our primary objective in executing and holding derivatives is to reduce the earnings and cash flow volatility associated with fluctuations in foreign currency exchange rates and commodity prices over the terms of our customer contracts. These hedge contracts reduce, but do not entirely eliminate, the impact of foreign currency exchange rate and commodity price movements. The Company does not enter into or hold derivative instruments for speculative trading purposes.

We use foreign currency contracts to reduce the volatility of cash flows related to forecasted revenues, expenses, assets, and liabilities. These contracts are generally one to 13 months in duration but with maximum remaining maturities of up to 14 years as of March 31, 2026.

Cash Flow Hedges. The total amount in AOCI related to cash flow hedges was a net $36 million gain and a net $100 million gain as of March 31, 2026 and December 31, 2025, respectively, of which a net $1 million gain and a net $26 million gain, respectively, related to our share of AOCI recognized at our non-consolidated joint ventures. We expect to reclassify $9 million of pre-tax net losses associated with designated cash flow hedges to earnings in the next 12 months, contemporaneously with the earnings effects of the related forecasted transactions. The Company reclassified net gains (losses) from AOCI into earnings of $21 million and $(9) million for the three months ended March 31, 2026 and 2025, respectively. As of March 31, 2026, the maximum length of time over which we are hedging forecasted transactions was approximately 9 years.

Net Investment Hedges. We enter into foreign exchange forwards designated as the hedging instruments in net investment hedging relationships in order to mitigate the foreign currency risk attributable to the translation of the Company's net investment in certain non-U.S. dollar functional equity method investees. The total amount in AOCI related to net investment hedges was a net gain of $33 million and $31 million as of March 31, 2026 and December 31, 2025, respectively.

The following table presents the gross fair values of our outstanding derivative instruments as of the dates indicated:

The amount excluded for cash flow hedges was a gain (loss) of $9 million and $8 million for the three months ended March 31, 2026 and 2025, respectively. These amounts are recognized in Sales of equipment, Sales of services, Cost of equipment, and Cost of services in our Consolidated Statement of Income (Loss).

NOTE 21. VARIABLE INTEREST ENTITIES (VIEs). In our Consolidated Statement of Financial Position, we have assets of $131 million and $128 million and liabilities of $136 million and $132 million as of March 31, 2026 and December 31, 2025, respectively, from consolidated VIEs. These entities were created to manage our insurance exposure through an insurance captive and to help our customers facilitate or finance the purchase of GE Vernova equipment and services, and have no features that could expose us to losses that would significantly exceed the difference between the consolidated assets and liabilities.

Our investments in unconsolidated VIEs were $129 million and $85 million as of March 31, 2026 and December 31, 2025, respectively. Our maximum exposure to loss in respect of unconsolidated VIEs is increased by our commitments to make additional investments in these entities described in Note 22.

NOTE 22. COMMITMENTS, GUARANTEES, PRODUCT WARRANTIES, AND OTHER LOSS CONTINGENCIES

Commitments. We had total investment commitments of $133 million and no unfunded lending commitments at March 31, 2026. The commitments primarily consist of obligations to make investments or provide funding by our Financial Services business. See Note 21 for further information.

Guarantees. As of March 31, 2026, we were committed under the following guarantee arrangements:

Credit support. We have provided $626 million of credit support on behalf of certain customers or associated companies, predominantly joint ventures and partnerships, using arrangements such as standby letters of credit and performance guarantees, and a line of credit to support our consolidated subsidiaries. The liability for such credit support was $5 million.

Indemnification agreements. We have $1,010 million of indemnification commitments, including our commercial contracts and agreements governing the sale of business assets, for which we recorded a liability of $674 million. The liability is primarily associated with cash and deposits and includes a $378 million liability at March 31, 2026 related to cash transferred to the Company from General Electric Company (GE) as part of the separation that is restricted in connection with certain legal matters related to legacy GE operations. The liability reflects the use of these funds to settle any associated obligations and the return of any remaining cash to GE in a future reporting period once resolved. In addition, the liability includes $200 million of indemnifications in connection with agreements entered into with GE related to the separation, including a tax matters agreement (TMA). The IRS is currently auditing the consolidated GE U.S. income tax returns for 2016 through 2020, during which years the GE Vernova businesses were part of the consolidated filing. In the first quarter of 2026, we were informed by GE of an update to this IRS audit. The resolution could result in additional tax obligations that may be allocated to GE Vernova by GE, in accordance with the TMA. The resolution of this matter could be time-consuming and is not likely in the near term. If the resolution is unfavorable, then it could result in material indemnification obligations due from GE Vernova to GE, which are not reasonably estimable at this time and for which no liability has been accrued.

Product Warranties. We provide for estimated product warranty expenses when we sell the related products. Because warranty estimates are forecasts that are based on the best available information, mostly historical claims experience, claims costs may differ from amounts provided. The liability for product warranties was $1,580 million and $1,573 million as of March 31, 2026 and December 31, 2025, respectively.

Legal Matters. In the normal course of our business, we are involved from time to time in various arbitrations, class actions, litigation, investigations, and other legal, regulatory, or governmental actions. See Note 22 in the Notes to our audited consolidated and combined financial statements in our Annual Report on Form 10-K for the fiscal year ended December 31, 2025 for further information.

Environmental and Asset Retirement Obligations. Our operations involve the use, disposal, and cleanup of substances regulated under environmental protection laws and nuclear decommissioning regulations. We have obligations for ongoing and future environmental remediation activities and may incur additional liabilities in connection with previously remediated sites. Additionally, like many other industrial companies, we and our subsidiaries are defendants in various lawsuits related to alleged worker exposure to asbestos or other hazardous materials. Liabilities for environmental remediation, nuclear decommissioning, and worker exposure claims exclude possible insurance recoveries.

It is reasonably possible that our exposure will exceed amounts accrued. However, due to uncertainties about the status of laws, regulations, technology, and information related to individual sites and lawsuits, such amounts are not reasonably estimable. Our reserves related to environmental remediation and worker exposure claims recorded in All other liabilities were $132 million and $135 million as of March 31, 2026 and December 31, 2025, respectively.

We record asset retirement obligations associated with the retirement of tangible long-lived assets as a liability in the period in which the obligation is incurred and its fair value can be reasonably estimated. These obligations primarily represent nuclear decommissioning, legal obligations to return leased premises to their initial state, or dismantle and repair specific alterations for certain leased sites. The liability is measured at the present value of the obligation when incurred and is adjusted in subsequent periods. Corresponding asset retirement costs are capitalized as part of the carrying value of the related long-lived assets and depreciated over the asset's useful life. Our asset retirement obligations were $544 million and $541 million as of March 31, 2026 and December 31, 2025, respectively, and are recorded in All other current liabilities and All other liabilities in our Consolidated Statement of Financial Position. Of these amounts, $463 million and $459 million, respectively, were related to nuclear decommissioning obligations.

NOTE 23. RESTRUCTURING CHARGES AND SEPARATION COSTS

Restructuring and Other Charges. The Company has undertaken or committed to various restructuring initiatives, including workforce reductions and the consolidation of manufacturing and service facilities. Restructuring and other charges primarily include employee-related termination benefits associated with workforce reductions, facility exit costs, asset write-downs, and cease-use costs. We expect the majority of costs to be incurred within two years of the commitment of a restructuring initiative.

This table is inclusive of all restructuring charges and the charges are shown below for the business where they originated. Separately, in our reported segment results, major restructuring programs are excluded from measurement of segment operating performance for internal and external purposes; those excluded amounts are reported in Restructuring and other charges. See Note 24 for further information.

(a) Includes $72 million, and $28 million for the three months ended March 31, 2026 and 2025 respectively, primarily of non-cash impairment, accelerated depreciation, and other charges not reflected in the liability table below.

Liabilities associated with restructuring activities were primarily related to workforce reductions and were recorded in All other current liabilities, All other liabilities, and Non-current compensation and benefits in our Consolidated Statement of Financial Position.

Additions	23	40
Payments	(34)	(46)
Foreign exchange and other	(2)	(25)
Balance as of March 31	$ 266	$ 277

Total restructuring and other charges incurred for the three months ended March 31, 2026 and 2025 primarily relate to programs to simplify the organizational structure of, reduce operating costs in, and to right-size the businesses. The costs for the three months ended March 31, 2026 also include costs of $56 million related to the acquisition and integration of the remaining 50% stake of Prolec GE in our Electrification segment. On July 21, 2025, we approved a restructuring plan (the Plan) accelerating previously announced enterprise transformation activities to reduce general and administrative costs. We anticipate that the Plan will be substantially complete by mid-2026. We expect to incur approximately $225 million in total costs in connection with the Plan primarily consisting of termination benefits associated with a reduction in the workforce, with approximately $175 million of the costs resulting in cash expenditures. In the three months ended March 31, 2026, we incurred $41 million of costs related to the Plan and have incurred $186 million of costs since inception of the Plan.

Separation Costs. In connection with the separation from GE, the Company recognized separation costs of $23 million and $45 million for the three months ended March 31, 2026 and 2025, respectively, in our Consolidated Statement of Income (Loss). Separation costs include system implementations, advisory fees, one-time stock option grant, and other one-time costs, which are primarily recorded in Selling, general, and administrative expenses.

NOTE 24. SEGMENT INFORMATION. Operating segments include components of an enterprise about which separate financial information is available that is evaluated regularly by the Company's Chief Operating Decision Maker (CODM) for the purpose of assessing performance and allocating resources. The Company's CODM is its Chief Executive Officer (CEO). Our operating activities are managed through three segments: Power, Electrification, and Wind. These segments have been identified based on the nature of the products and services sold and how the Company manages its operations.

The performance of these segments is principally measured based on revenues and segment EBITDA. Segment EBITDA is determined based on the performance measures used by our CEO to assess the performance of each business in a given period. In connection with that assessment, the CEO may exclude matters, such as charges for impairments, significant higher-cost restructuring programs, manufacturing footprint rationalization and other similar expenses, acquisition costs and other related charges, certain gains and losses from acquisitions or dispositions, and certain other non-operational items.

Consistent accounting policies have been applied by all segments for all reporting periods. See Note 1 for a description of our reportable segments.

ITEM 2. MANAGEMENT'S DISCUSSION AND ANALYSIS OF FINANCIAL CONDITION AND RESULTS OF

OPERATIONS. The following discussion and analysis of our financial condition and results of operations should be read in conjunction with our consolidated financial statements, which are prepared in conformity with U.S. generally accepted accounting principles (GAAP), and corresponding notes included elsewhere in this Quarterly Report on Form 10-Q. The following discussion and analysis provides information that management believes to be relevant to understanding the financial condition and results of operations of the Company for the three months ended March 31, 2026 and 2025. The below discussion should be read alongside Item 7. "Management's Discussion and Analysis of Financial Condition and Results of Operations" and our audited consolidated and combined financial statements and corresponding notes in our Annual Report on Form 10-K for the fiscal year ended December 31, 2025. Unless otherwise noted, tables are presented in U.S. dollars in millions, except for per-share amounts which are presented in U.S. dollars. Certain columns and rows within tables may not add due to the use of rounded numbers. Percentages presented in this report are calculated from the underlying numbers in millions. Unless otherwise noted, statements related to changes in operating results relate to the corresponding period in the prior year.

In the accompanying analysis of financial information, we sometimes use information derived from consolidated financial data but not presented in our financial statements prepared in accordance with GAAP. Certain of these data are considered "non-GAAP financial measures" under SEC rules. For the reasons we use these non-GAAP financial measures and the reconciliations to their most directly comparable GAAP financial measures, see "—Non-GAAP Financial Measures."

Prolec GE. On February 2, 2026, we completed the acquisition of the remaining 50% stake of Prolec GE, our former unconsolidated joint venture with Xignux, in exchange for cash consideration of approximately $5.3 billion. Prolec GE is an electric industry leader in North America, with approximately 10,000 employees across seven manufacturing sites in the Americas, including five in the U.S. It produces a wide variety of transformers and transformer components for the generation, transmission, and distribution of electricity, complemented by its broad transformer services offering. Net assets and results of operations of Prolec GE are included in our results commencing on February 2, 2026 and are reported within the Electrification segment. As a result of this acquisition, we remeasured our previously held equity interest to fair value, with the resulting pre-tax gain of $4.0 billion recognized within Other income (expense) – net in our Consolidated Statement of Income during the first quarter of 2026.

Long-term Borrowings. On February 4, 2026, we issued $2.6 billion aggregate principal amount of senior notes, consisting of $0.6 billion, $1.0 billion, and $1.0 billion due February 2031, 2036, and 2056, respectively. The proceeds from the debt offering were used for general corporate purposes, including financing a portion of the acquisition of the remaining 50% stake of Prolec GE.

Offshore Wind. At Offshore Wind, we continue to experience pressure related to our project costs and execution timelines, as we deliver on our existing backlog. On December 22, 2025, the United States Department of Interior announced that it was pausing the leases for all large-scale offshore wind projects under construction in the United States, which had a direct impact on the Vineyard Wind project completion timeline. On January 27, that pause was lifted and during the first quarter of 2026, we successfully completed the installation of all remaining wind turbines at the Vineyard Wind project and now have moved on to the remaining commissioning activities. As we work through the final stages of the project, we are working with our customer to resolve outstanding claims and counterclaims.

Tariffs. Throughout 2025 and 2026, the United States and other countries imposed global tariffs. These tariffs have resulted, and any future tariffs will result, in additional costs to us. The current total estimated cost impact from the global tariffs as outlined is approximately $250 million to $350 million in 2026, after taking into consideration contractual protections and mitigating actions. The actual impacts of tariffs may be significantly different than our current estimate. Our estimate is subject to several factors including the amount, duration, scope and nature of the tariffs, countermeasures that countries take, mitigating or other actions we take, and contractual implications.

Business Unit Realignment. Effective January 1, 2026, we realigned the reporting of certain of our business units. Historical financial information presented within this report conforms to the new business unit structure within the Power, Electrification, and Wind segments.

- Within our Power segment, our Steam Power business unit was realigned into Nuclear Power, Hydro Power, and Gas Power. In addition, a component of our former Electrification Software business unit was realigned into Gas Power.
- Within our Electrification segment, we revised our Grid Solutions business unit into three new business units, Power Transmission, Grid Systems Integration, and Grid Automation & Software. In addition, a component of our former Electrification Software business unit was realigned into Grid Automation & Software and another component was realigned into Gas Power within our Power segment.
- Within our Wind segment, we combined our Onshore Wind and LM Wind Power business units into Onshore Wind.

TRENDS AND FACTORS IMPACTING OUR PERFORMANCE. We believe our performance and future success depends on a number of factors that present significant opportunities for us but also pose risks and challenges, including those discussed below.

Our worldwide operations are affected by regional and global factors impacting energy demand, including industry trends like decarbonization, an increasing demand for renewable energy alternatives, governmental regulations and policies, and changes in broader economic and geopolitical conditions. These trends, along with the growing focus on the digitization and sustainability of the electricity infrastructure, can impact performance across each of our business segments. We believe that our industry-defining technologies and commitment to innovation position us well to capitalize on, as well as mitigate adverse impacts from, these long-term trends:

- Demand growth for electricity generation – Significant investment, infrastructure, and supply diversity will be essential to help meet forecasted energy demand growth arising from population and global economic growth.
- Decarbonization – The urgency to combat climate change is fueling technology advancements that improve the economic viability and efficiency of renewable energy alternatives and facilitate the transition to a more sustainable power sector.
- Evolving generation mix – The power industry is shifting from coal generation to more electricity generated from zero- or low-carbon energy sources, and an evolving balance of generation sources will be necessary to maintain a reliable, resilient, and affordable system.
- Energy resilience & security – Threats and challenges from extreme weather events, cyber-attacks, and geopolitical tensions have increased focus on the strength and resilience of power generation and transmission and reinforced the need for a diversified mix of energy sources.

- Grid modernization and investment – Increased demand and the integration of advanced generation and storage solutions drive the need to update aging infrastructure with new grid integration and automation solutions.
- Regulatory and policy changes – Government policies and regulations, such as carbon pricing, renewable energy mandates, and subsidies for renewable energy technologies, can significantly impact the power generation landscape. Staying ahead of regulatory changes and adapting to new compliance requirements is crucial for maintaining a competitive advantage.
- Financial and investment dynamics – Access to capital and investment trends in the energy sector can influence the development and deployment of new power generation projects. Understanding market dynamics and securing funding are key to progressing strategic initiatives.

RESULTS OF OPERATIONS

Summary of Results. RPO was $163.3 billion and $123.4 billion as of March 31, 2026 and 2025, respectively. For the three months ended March 31, 2026, total revenues were $9.3 billion, an increase of $1.3 billion for the quarter. Net income (loss) was $4.7 billion, an increase of $4.5 billion in net income for the quarter, and net income (loss) margin was 50.9%. Diluted earnings (loss) per share was $17.44 for the three months ended March 31, 2026, an increase in diluted earnings per share of $16.53 for the quarter. Cash flows from (used for) operating activities were $5.2 billion and $1.2 billion for the three months ended March 31, 2026 and 2025, respectively.

RPO, a measure of backlog, includes unfilled firm and unconditional customer orders for equipment and services, excluding any purchase order that provides the customer with the ability to cancel or terminate without incurring a substantive penalty. Services RPO includes the estimated life of contract sales related to long-term service agreements which remain unsatisfied at the end of the reporting period, excluding contracts that are not yet active. Services RPO also includes the estimated amount of unsatisfied performance obligations for time and material agreements, material services agreements, spare parts under purchase order, multi-year maintenance programs, and other services agreements, excluding any order that provides the customer with the ability to cancel or terminate without incurring a substantive penalty. See Note 9 in the Notes to the consolidated financial statements for further information.

Equipment revenues increased at Electrification, primarily due to the acquisition of Prolec GE, and increased volume in switchgear and transformers at Power Transmission, and at Grid Systems Integration due to increased volume in alternating current substation solutions and high voltage direct current solutions; and at Power, due to increases at Gas Power from Heavy-Duty Gas Turbine and Aeroderivative equipment deliveries and favorable pricing; partially offset at Wind, primarily at Onshore Wind due to lower deliveries, partially offset by increases at Offshore Wind due to higher deliveries and installations. Services revenues increased at Power, Wind, and Electrification.

Organic revenues* exclude the effects of acquisitions, dispositions, and foreign currency. Excluding these effects, organic revenues* increased $0.6 billion (7%), organic equipment revenues* increased $0.4 billion (10%) and organic services revenues* increased $0.2 billion (4%). Organic revenues* increased at Electrification and Power, partially offset at Wind.

*Non-GAAP Financial Measure

For the three months ended March 31, 2026, operating income (loss) was $0.2 billion, a $0.1 billion increase, primarily due to: an increase in segment results at Electrification of $0.3 billion, primarily due to volume, productivity, and favorable price at Power Transmission and Grid Systems Integration; and at Power of $0.3 billion, primarily at Gas Power due to favorable pricing and higher volume, partially offset by the impact of inflation; partially offset by a decrease at Wind of $(0.2) billion, primarily at Onshore Wind due to lower equipment deliveries and the impact of tariffs, and at Offshore Wind due to higher contract losses, partially offset by lower costs at Onshore Wind services; and an increase in depreciation and amortization expense across all segments of $0.1 billion.

Net income (loss) and Net income (loss) margin were $4.7 billion and 50.9%, respectively, for the three months ended March 31, 2026, an increase of $4.5 billion and 47.6%, respectively, for the quarter, primarily due to an increase in other income (expense) - net of $4.6 billion driven by a $4.0 billion pre-tax gain related to the acquisition of Prolec GE and a $0.3 billion pre-tax gain related to the sale of our Proficy manufacturing software business (Proficy), and operating income (loss) of $0.1 billion, partially offset by an increase in provision for income taxes of $0.3 billion.

Adjusted EBITDA* and Adjusted EBITDA margin* were $0.9 billion and 9.6%, respectively, for the three months ended March 31, 2026, an increase of $0.4 billion and 3.9%, respectively, primarily driven by increases in segment results at Electrification and Power, partially offset at Wind.

SEGMENT OPERATIONS. Segment revenues include sales of equipment and services by our segments. Segment EBITDA is determined based on performance measures used by our Chief Operating Decision Maker, who is our Chief Executive Officer (CEO), to assess the performance of each business in a given period. In connection with that assessment, the CEO may exclude certain non-cash charges, such as depreciation and amortization, impairments and other matters, major restructuring programs, and certain gains and losses from purchases and sales of business interests. Certain corporate costs, including those related to shared services, employee benefits, and information technology (IT), are allocated to our segments based on usage or their relative net cost of operations.

OTHER INFORMATION

Gross Profit and Gross Margin. Gross profit was $1.8 billion and $1.5 billion for the three months ended March 31, 2026 and 2025, respectively. Gross margin was 19.1% and 18.3% for the three months ended, respectively. The increase in gross profit for the quarter was due to an increase at Electrification due to volume, productivity, and favorable price at Power Transmission and Grid Systems Integration; and at Power due to favorable pricing and higher volume at Gas Power, partially offset by the impact of inflation; partially offset by a decrease at Wind primarily at Onshore Wind due to lower equipment deliveries and the impact of tariffs, and at Offshore Wind due to higher contract losses.

Selling, General, and Administrative. Selling, general, and administrative costs were $1.3 billion and $1.2 billion and comprised 13.9% and 14.8% of revenues for the three months ended March 31, 2026 and 2025, respectively. Selling, general, and administrative costs increased $0.1 billion for the quarter, primarily due to labor inflation and incremental costs associated with the acquisition of Prolec GE, partially offset by cost reduction activities.

Restructuring Charges and Separation Costs. We continuously evaluate our cost structure and are implementing several restructuring and process transformation actions considered necessary to simplify our organizational structure. In connection with the separation from General Electric Company (GE), we incurred and will continue to incur certain one-time separation costs. See Note 23 in the Notes to the consolidated financial statements for further information.

Interest and Other Financial Income (Charges) – Net. Interest and other financial income (charges) – net was less than $0.1 billion and $0.1 billion in income for the three months ended March 31, 2026 and 2025, respectively. The decrease in income was primarily driven by higher interest expense on borrowings. The primary components of net interest and other financial income (charges) are fees on cash management activities, interest on borrowings, and interest earned on cash balances and short-term investments.

Income Taxes. Our effective tax rate was 6.9% for the three months ended March 31, 2026. The effective tax rate was lower than the U.S. statutory rate of 21% primarily due to a nontaxable gain on the acquisition of Prolec GE and an income tax benefit from stock-based compensation partially offset by losses providing no tax benefit in certain jurisdictions.

Our effective tax rate was 20.5% for the three months ended March 31, 2025. The effective tax rate was lower than the U.S. statutory rate of 21% primarily due to an income tax benefit from stock-based compensation, mostly offset by losses providing no tax benefit in certain jurisdictions.

CAPITAL RESOURCES AND LIQUIDITY. As of March 31, 2026, our Cash, cash equivalents, and restricted cash was $10.2 billion, $0.4 billion of which was restricted use cash. In addition, we have access to a $3.0 billion committed revolving credit facility (Revolving Credit Facility). See “—Capital Resources and Liquidity—Debt” for further information. We believe our unrestricted cash, cash equivalents, future cash flows generated from operations, and committed credit facility will be responsive to the needs of our current and planned operations for at least the next 12 months.

On December 9, 2025, we announced that the Board of Directors had authorized an increase of our repurchase program to $10.0 billion of common stock repurchases, from the prior authorization of $6.0 billion, which was announced on December 10, 2024. We repurchased 1.8 million shares for $1.3 billion during the three months ended March 31, 2026. Cumulatively we have repurchased $4.6 billion of common stock over the life of the program. Although we intend to fund priorities that profitably grow the company and return capital to stockholders through dividends and share repurchases as part of our capital allocation strategy, we are not obligated to pay cash dividends or to repurchase a specified or any number or dollar value of shares under our share repurchase program. The declaration of any future dividends is at the discretion of our Board of Directors and will be based on our earnings, financial condition, cash requirements, prospects, and other factors. The amount and timing of any future share repurchases under our share repurchase program will be based on the trading price and volume of our shares of common stock and other market factors as well as our earnings, financial condition, cash requirements, prospects, alternative uses for our cash, and other factors.

Consolidated Statement of Cash Flows. The most significant source of cash flows from operations is customer-related activities, the largest of which is collecting cash resulting from equipment or services sales. The most significant operating uses of cash are to pay our suppliers, employees, and tax authorities. We measure ourselves on a free cash flow* basis. We believe that free cash flow* provides management and investors with an important measure of our ability to generate cash on a normalized basis.

Free cash flow* also provides insight into our ability to produce cash subsequent to fulfilling our capital obligations; however, free cash flow* does not delineate funds available for discretionary uses as it does not deduct the payments required for certain investing and financing activities.

We typically invest in property, plant, and equipment (PP&E) over multiple periods to support new product introductions and increases in manufacturing capacity and to perform ongoing maintenance of our manufacturing operations. We believe that while PP&E expenditures will fluctuate period to period, we will need to maintain a material level of net PP&E spend to maintain ongoing operations and growth of the business.

*Non-GAAP Financial Measure

Cash from operating activities was $5.2 billion and $1.2 billion for the three months ended March 31, 2026 and 2025, respectively.

Cash from operating activities increased by $4.0 billion in 2026 compared to 2025, primarily driven by: an increase from contract liabilities and current deferred income of $4.5 billion, primarily due to higher down payments on orders and slot reservation agreements at Power, higher down payments and milestone collections at Electrification, and lower revenue recognition at Wind; an increase from accounts payable of $0.7 billion, driven by growth at Electrification and Power, including a higher impact related to decreases in prepayments; higher net income (after adjusting for depreciation of PP&E, amortization of intangible assets, (gains) losses on purchases and sales of business interests, and provision (benefit) for income taxes) of $0.5 billion; partially offset by a decrease from inventories of $(0.5) billion, primarily due to higher build and fewer liquidations in Wind; higher income taxes paid of $(0.4) billion; a decrease from All other operating activities of $(0.4) billion, primarily due to an increase in non-cash unrealized gains related to our interest in China XD Electric Co., Ltd; and a decrease from current receivables of $(0.3) billion, primarily due to higher net billings and increases in supplier advances at Wind.

Cash from operating activities of $5.2 billion for the three months ended March 31, 2026 included a $5.3 billion inflow from changes in working capital. The cash inflow from changes in working capital was primarily driven by: contract liabilities and current deferred income of $5.6 billion, driven by down payments on orders and slot reservation agreements at Power, and down payments at Electrification; current receivables of $0.6 billion, driven by net collections in Power and Electrification, partially offset by an increase in supplier advances in Power; accounts payable and equipment project payables of $0.5 billion, due to purchases of materials outpacing disbursements, including a decrease in prepayments, in Electrification and Power; inventories of $(0.9) billion, primarily due to higher production and fewer liquidations at Wind, and higher volume to support fulfillment and future deliveries at Power; and current contract assets of $(0.4) billion, driven by equipment revenue recognition exceeding billings at Electrification and Power.

Cash from operating activities of $1.2 billion for the three months ended March 31, 2025 included a $1.0 billion inflow from changes in working capital. The cash inflow from changes in working capital was primarily driven by: contract liabilities and current deferred income of $1.1 billion, driven by down payments on orders and slot reservation agreements at Power, and down payments and collections at Electrification, partially offset by revenue recognition at Wind; and current receivables of $0.9 billion, driven by collections outpacing billings in Wind and Power and a decrease in past dues; inventories of $(0.4) billion, primarily due to volume in Power and Electrification to support fulfillment and deliveries expected in 2025; current contract assets of $(0.3) billion, driven by revenue recognition exceeding billings, primarily in Power and Wind; and accounts payable and equipment project payables of $(0.3) billion due to disbursements outpacing purchases of materials, partially offset by a decrease in prepayments.

Cash from (used for) investing activities was $(4.3) billion and $(0.1) billion for the three months ended March 31, 2026 and 2025, respectively. Cash used for investing activities increased by $4.2 billion in 2026 compared to 2025 primarily driven by: net cash paid for the acquisition of the remaining 50% stake of Prolec GE of $4.9 billion (net of cash acquired); partially offset by proceeds (net of cash transferred) from the sale of our Proficy business for $0.6 billion. Cash used for additions to PP&E and internal-use software, which is a component of free cash flow*, was $0.4 billion and $0.2 billion for the three months ended March 31, 2026 and 2025, respectively.

Cash from (used for) financing activities was $0.4 billion and $(1.3) billion for the three months ended March 31, 2026 and 2025, respectively. Cash from financing activities increased by $1.7 billion in 2026 compared to 2025 primarily driven by: net cash from newly issued long-term debt of $2.6 billion; partially offset by the repayment of debt acquired in the Prolec GE transaction of $0.4 billion and higher withholding tax payments on equity stock awards of $0.2 billion, which are both included in All other financing activities; higher cash settlements for share repurchases of $0.2 billion; and higher dividends paid of $0.1 billion.

Material Cash Requirements. In the normal course of business, we enter into contracts and commitments that oblige us to make payments in the future. See Notes 7 and 22 in the Notes to the consolidated financial statements for further information regarding our obligations under lease and guarantee arrangements as well as our investment commitments. See Note 13 in the Notes to the consolidated financial statements for further information regarding material cash requirements related to our pension obligations.

Debt. Total debt, excluding finance leases, was $2.6 billion and less than $0.1 billion as of March 31, 2026 and December 31, 2025, respectively, an increase of $2.5 billion, primarily due to long-term debt issued on February 4, 2026. We have a $3.0 billion Revolving Credit Facility to fund near-term intra-quarter working capital needs as they arise. In addition, we have a $3.0 billion committed trade finance facility (Trade Finance Facility, and together with the Revolving Credit Facility, the Credit Facilities). The Trade Finance Facility has not been and is not expected to be utilized, and does not contribute to direct liquidity. We believe that our financing arrangements, future cash from operations, and access to capital markets will provide adequate resources to fund our future cash flow needs. For more information about the Credit Facilities, refer to our Current Report on Form 8-K, filed with the SEC on April 2, 2024, and see Note 14 in the Notes to the consolidated financial statements.

Credit Ratings and Conditions. Interest and fees payable by us under the Revolving Credit Facility are determined in part by our credit ratings, and our credit ratings and market conditions will influence any future debt financing and may impact our commercial activities and arrangements. Standard and Poor's Global Ratings (S&P) and Fitch Ratings (Fitch) have issued credit ratings for the Company. Our credit ratings as of the date of this filing are set forth in the following table.

	S&P	Fitch
Outlook	Positive	Positive
Long-term	BBB	BBB+

We are disclosing our credit ratings to enhance understanding of our sources of liquidity and the effects of our ratings on our costs of funds and access to credit. Our ratings may be subject to a revision or withdrawal at any time by the assigning rating organization, and each rating should be evaluated independently of any other rating. See Item 1A. "Risk Factors—Risks Related to our Customers and Industry Dynamics" in our Annual Report on Form 10-K for the fiscal year ended December 31, 2025 for a description of some potential consequences for our credit ratings.

*Non-GAAP Financial Measure

If we are unable to maintain investment grade ratings, we could face significant challenges in being awarded new contracts, substantially increasing financing and hedging costs, and refinancing risks as well as substantially decreasing the availability of credit. As of March 31, 2026, we estimated an insignificant liquidity impact of a ratings downgrade below investment grade.

Parent Company Credit Support. Prior to the separation from GE, to support GE Vernova businesses in selling products and services globally, GE often entered into contracts on behalf of GE Vernova or issued parent company guarantees or trade finance instruments supporting the performance of its subsidiary legal entities transacting directly with customers, in addition to providing similar credit support for noncustomer related activities of GE Vernova (collectively, the GE credit support). We are working to seek novation or assignment of GE credit support, the majority of which relates to parent company guarantees, associated with GE Vernova legal entities from GE to GE Vernova. For GE credit support that remained outstanding at the separation from GE, GE Vernova is obligated to use reasonable best efforts to terminate or replace, and obtain a full release of GE's obligations and liabilities under, all such credit support. GE Vernova pays quarterly fees to GE which are determined by amounts associated with GE credit support. GE Vernova is subject to other contractual restrictions and requirements while GE continues to be obligated under such credit support on behalf of GE Vernova. In addition, while GE will remain obligated under the contract or instrument, GE Vernova will be obligated to indemnify GE for credit support related payments that GE is required to make and possible related costs.

As of March 31, 2026, we estimated GE Vernova RPO and other obligations that relate to GE credit support to be approximately $7.5 billion, an over 79% reduction since the separation. We expect approximately $5 billion of the RPO related to GE credit support obligations to contractually mature by December 31, 2029. The underlying obligations are predominantly customer contracts that GE Vernova performs in the normal course of its business. We have no known instances historically where payments or performance from GE were required under parent company guarantees relating to GE Vernova customer contracts.

RECENTLY ISSUED ACCOUNTING PRONOUNCEMENTS. In November 2024, the Financial Accounting Standards Board (FASB) issued ASU No. 2024-03, Disaggregation of Income Statement Expenses (DISE). The new standard requires disclosure about specific types of expenses included in the expense captions presented on the face of the income statement as well as disclosure about selling expenses. The ASU is effective for fiscal years beginning after December 15, 2026 and interim reporting periods beginning after December 15, 2027, with early adoption permitted. We are currently evaluating the impact that this guidance will have on the disclosures within our consolidated financial statements.

In September 2025, the FASB issued ASU No. 2025-06, Intangibles—Goodwill and Other—Internal-Use Software (Subtopic 350-40): Targeted improvements to the Accounting for Internal-Use Software. The ASU updates the accounting for internal-use software by eliminating the concept of development stages. Under this updated guidance, software costs are capitalized once management has authorized and committed funding to the project, and it is probable the project will be completed and the software used as intended. The ASU is effective for fiscal years beginning after December 15, 2027, and interim periods within those annual periods. We are currently evaluating the impact that this guidance will have on our consolidated financial statements.

In December 2025, the FASB issued ASU No. 2025-10, Accounting for Government Grants Received by Business Entities. The new standard establishes guidance on the recognition, measurement, and presentation of government grants received by business entities. The ASU is effective for fiscal years beginning after December 15, 2028. We are currently evaluating the impact that this guidance will have on our consolidated financial statements.

CRITICAL ACCOUNTING ESTIMATES. To prepare our consolidated financial statements in accordance with U.S. GAAP, management makes estimates and assumptions that may affect the reported amounts of our assets and liabilities, including our contingent liabilities, as of the date of our financial statements and the reported amounts of our revenues and expenses during the reporting periods. Our actual results may differ from these estimates. We consider estimates to be critical (i) if we are required to make assumptions about material matters that are uncertain at the time of estimation or (ii) if materially different estimates could have been made or it is reasonably likely that the accounting estimate will change from period to period. See Item 7. "Management's Discussion and Analysis of Financial Condition and Results of Operations—Critical Accounting Estimates" and Note 2 in the Notes to the audited consolidated and combined financial statements in our Annual Report on Form 10-K for the fiscal year ended December 31, 2025 for additional discussion of accounting policies and critical accounting estimates.

Except as described below, there have been no material changes to our critical accounting estimates as compared to the critical accounting estimates disclosed in our audited consolidated and combined financial statements and notes thereto for the year ended December 31, 2025 in our Annual Report on Form 10-K.

Business Combinations. The results of a business acquired in a business combination are included in our consolidated financial statements as of the date of the acquisition. Purchase accounting results in assets and liabilities of an acquired business being recorded at their estimated fair values on the acquisition date, which may be considered preliminary and subject to adjustment during the measurement period, which is up to one year from the acquisition date. Any excess consideration over the fair value of assets acquired and liabilities assumed is recognized as goodwill.

We perform valuations of assets acquired and liabilities assumed and allocate the purchase price to the respective assets and liabilities. Determining the fair value of assets acquired and liabilities assumed requires significant judgment and estimates, including the selection of valuation methodologies, estimates of future revenue, costs, and cash flows, discount rates, royalty rates, and selection of comparable companies. We engage third-party valuation specialists to assist in concluding on fair value measurements in connection with determining fair values of assets acquired and liabilities assumed in a business combination. The resulting fair values and useful lives assigned to acquisition-related intangible assets impact the amount and timing of future amortization expense.

These estimates are inherently uncertain and unpredictable, and if different estimates were used the purchase price for the acquisition could be allocated to the acquired assets and liabilities differently from the allocation that we have made. In addition, unanticipated events and circumstances may occur which may affect the accuracy or validity of such estimates, and if such events occur, we may be required to record a charge against the value ascribed to an acquired asset, an increase in the amounts recorded for assumed liabilities, or an impairment of some or all of the goodwill. See Note 8 in the Notes to the consolidated financial statements for further information.

NON-GAAP FINANCIAL MEASURES. The non-GAAP financial measures presented in this Quarterly Report on Form 10-Q are supplemental measures of our performance and our liquidity that we believe help investors understand our financial condition and operating results and assess our future prospects. We believe that presenting these non-GAAP financial measures, in addition to the corresponding U.S. GAAP financial measures, are important supplemental measures that exclude non-cash or other items that may not be indicative of or are unrelated to our core operating results and the overall health of our company. We believe that these non-GAAP financial measures provide investors greater transparency to the information used by management for its operational decision-making and allow investors to see our results “through the eyes of management.” We further believe that providing this information assists our investors in understanding our operating performance and the methodology used by management to evaluate and measure such performance. When read in conjunction with our U.S. GAAP results, these non-GAAP financial measures provide a baseline for analyzing trends in our underlying businesses and can be used by management as one basis for financial, operational, and planning decisions. Finally, these measures are often used by analysts and other interested parties to evaluate companies in our industry.

Management recognizes that these non-GAAP financial measures have limitations, including that they may be calculated differently by other companies or may be used under different circumstances or for different purposes, thereby affecting their comparability from company to company. In order to compensate for these and the other limitations discussed below, management does not consider these measures in isolation from or as alternatives to the comparable financial measures determined in accordance with U.S. GAAP. Readers should review the reconciliations below, and above with respect to free cash flow, and should not rely on any single financial measure to evaluate our business. The reasons we use these non-GAAP financial measures and the reconciliations to their most directly comparable U.S. GAAP financial measures follow.

We believe the organic measures presented below provide management and investors with a more complete understanding of underlying operating results and trends of established, ongoing operations by excluding the effect of acquisitions, dispositions, and foreign currency, which includes translational and transactional impacts, as these activities can obscure underlying trends.

We believe that Adjusted EBITDA* and Adjusted EBITDA margin*, which are adjusted to exclude the effects of unique and/or non-cash items that are not closely associated with ongoing operations, provide management and investors with meaningful measures of our performance that increase the period-to-period comparability by highlighting the results from ongoing operations and the underlying profitability factors. We believe Adjusted organic EBITDA* and Adjusted organic EBITDA margin* provide management and investors with, when considered with Adjusted EBITDA* and Adjusted EBITDA margin*, a more complete understanding of underlying operating results and trends of established, ongoing operations by further excluding the effect of acquisitions, dispositions, and foreign currency, which includes translational and transactional impacts, as these activities can obscure underlying trends. We believe these measures provide additional insight into how our businesses are performing on a normalized basis. However, Adjusted EBITDA*, Adjusted organic EBITDA*, Adjusted EBITDA margin* and Adjusted organic EBITDA margin* should not be construed as inferring that our future results will be unaffected by the items for which the measures adjust.

ITEM 3. QUANTITATIVE AND QUALITATIVE DISCLOSURES ABOUT MARKET RISK. We are exposed to market risk primarily from fluctuations of foreign currency exchange rates, interest rates, and commodity prices. These exposures are managed and mitigated with the use of financial instruments, including derivatives contracts. We apply policies to manage these risks, including prohibitions on speculative activities. The effects of foreign currency fluctuations on earnings were less than $(0.1) billion and less than $0.1 billion for the three months ended March 31, 2026 and 2025, respectively. See Item 7A. "Quantitative and Qualitative Disclosures About Market Risk" in our Annual Report on Form 10-K for the fiscal year ended December 31, 2025 for more information about foreign exchange risk, interest rate risk, and commodity risk.

ITEM 4. CONTROLS AND PROCEDURES.

Evaluation of Disclosure Controls and Procedures. Under the supervision and with the participation of the Company's management, including the Chief Executive Officer and Chief Financial Officer, the Company evaluated its disclosure controls and procedures as defined in Rules 13a-15(e) and 15d-15(e) under the Exchange Act. Based on this evaluation, the Chief Executive Officer and Chief Financial Officer concluded that the Company's disclosure controls and procedures were effective as of March 31, 2026, and that the information required to be disclosed by the Company in the reports that it files or submits under the Exchange Act is recorded, processed, summarized, and reported, within the time periods specified in the SEC's rules and forms, and that such information is accumulated and communicated to management, including the Chief Executive Officer and Chief Financial Officer, as appropriate, to allow timely decisions regarding required disclosure.

Changes in Internal Control Over Financial Reporting. During the quarter ended March 31, 2026, the Company continued to exit from various transition service agreements with GE Aerospace primarily related to information technology systems that impact financial reporting. Consequently, responsibility for execution of related internal controls transferred to the Company, including certain general information technology controls in connection with information technology environment changes.

On February 2, 2026, the Company completed the acquisition of the remaining 50% stake of Prolec GE. See Note 8 in the Notes to the consolidated financial statements for further information. The Company is in the process of analyzing and evaluating the internal control environment as it relates to the integration of Prolec GE, which may result in additions or changes to our internal control over financial reporting. The Company will exclude Prolec GE's operations from the scope of our annual assessment of the effectiveness of internal control over financial reporting for the year ending December 31, 2026 in accordance with Securities and Exchange Commission guidance. Such guidance permits management to omit an assessment of an acquired business' internal control over financial reporting from management's assessment of internal control over financial reporting for a period not to exceed one year from the date of acquisition.

Other than those discussed in the preceding sentences, no change in the Company's internal control over financial reporting occurred during the quarter ended March 31, 2026, that materially affected, or is reasonably likely to materially affect, the Company's internal control over financial reporting.
